About: ZoomMed Inc. (TSX-V: ZMD)

The ZRx Prescriber is Web software that operates on a small pocket computer or regular computer and that allows physicians to complete prescription information and make it available to pharmacists, allowing them to view this information online, specifically by reading the unique barcode of the prescription, and to confirm it with a copy signed by the attending physician.

As well, the "ZRx Prescriber" offers physicians a portable source of medical information provided by pharmaceutical corporations and private or public organizations which will adopt this new revolutionary communication tool. Clinical studies, scientific discoveries, launching of new products, training, important medical alerts and more, are all possible ways the system can be used by thousands of physicians across the country.
